The aim of the Training Programme is threefold:

1. To enable students to learn about, and be trained in, all the resources available in Cambridge that might assist their studies;

2. To enable students to learn teaching, presentation and other transferable skills; and

3. To prepare students for making applications and attending interviews for the next stage of their career.
CamGuides

CamGuides (https://camguides.lib.cam.ac.uk/masters.html) is a free online resource for all Master’s students with a taught element, designed as an introduction to some of the academic, digital and research practices that you’ll engage in at the University of Cambridge. It encourages you to think about ways you can prepare for your course before it starts. It offers information and guidance on: finding your way around the University and the city; finding and managing information and resources for your studies; using academic software to stay organised, for writing and for referencing; and developing essential transferrable skills, such as time management, critical thinking and academic writing. CamGuides has been created by Cambridge University Libraries with valuable input from existing Master’s students who share their experiences and advice throughout.
COMPUTING AND OTHER RESOURCES

COMPUTING IN CAMBRIDGE

On Friday, 9th October at 10am, our Computing Officer, Marie-France Moss, will give a short presentation covering the Cambridge Desktop Services including e-mail, printing and wireless networks. The presentation will take place via Zoom – joining details will be sent to all students.

RESEARCH TOOLS IN PHILOSOPHY

The wealth of print and electronic resources made available to researchers by the 100+ libraries at Cambridge can initially feel overwhelming and tricky to navigate. Come along to this workshop to learn more about the tools on offer to help you find, access and manage relevant material for your research as quickly and painlessly as possible. The workshop will be delivered by your Philosophy Librarian, Jo Harcus, at a time to be confirmed. All new philosophy postgraduate students will be expected to attend. Further information on the Casimir Lewy Library found in the Philosophy Faculty is here:

https://www.phil.cam.ac.uk/library

RESEARCHER DEVELOPMENT

The Researcher Development Programme offers a variety of online training for Research students. Information on the courses available can be found here:

http://www.rdp.cam.ac.uk

Some of the courses available to do online include; Managing a Research Project, Presentation Skills Toolkit, Time Management Toolkit, and Making the Most of Conferences. Courses can be booked here: https://www.training.cam.ac.uk/gdp/

RESEARCH DEVELOPMENT LOG

The University provides a Research Development Log which PhD students are encouraged to use to keep a log of all research development training attended. The log can be found here: https://www.rdlog.admin.cam.ac.uk/

What is Open Research and what does it mean FOR YOU?

The Office of Scholarly Communication have an exciting and varied set of training programmes, aimed at different members of the University community. Their training focuses mainly on Open Research practice and policies, the publishing landscape, and Research Data Management. Please see here for further information about the training they offer:

https://osc.cam.ac.uk/training

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

Cambridge University, known affectionately as the ‘UL’, is unique. It is a national, legal deposit library housing vast collections of around 9 million physical items and provides access to millions more resources online. Cambridge University Library is now open for limited services from Monday-Friday. Book a visit to view non-borrowable material in the Main reading room or a Special Collections reading room. Please read more about the phased reopening of the UL and Faculty and Departmental Libraries.

Cambridge University Libraries maintain a website listing online course for Cambridge researchers about publishing, managing data, finding and disseminating research: https://libguides.cam.ac.uk/research-skills

In particular, PhD students may find the ‘Writing for publication’ online course being offered by the University libraries useful. This will take place on Wednesday 21st October, from 1-2pm, via Microsoft Teams. Booking details are here:

https://www.training.cam.ac.uk/event/3568396

The University Libraries also offer a self taught online course on Effective management of information. This Graduate Self-Assessment tool is intended for those in the Humanities & Social Sciences and Arts & Humanities schools. It is the first step in an online module designed to help you to assess your own skill-set, identify target areas for improvement and make decisions about what to do next. The tool is recommended for all first year postgraduates, but will be available for you to return to check on your progress. Further details are here:

https://www.training.cam.ac.uk/cul/event/1919458

GENERAL ADVICE ON COMPUTING AND RESOURCES

Writing and discussing

- Your fellow postgraduate students and research fellows are an invaluable resource. Show your work to them and ask for feedback. Or set up a reading group to discuss works of common interest.
Boardroom can be booked (via the Faculty Office) for informal seminars.

- Read Phillips & Pugh’s How to Get a PhD
- For style, read Strunk and White’s The Elements of Style (Please refer to P.16, Recommended Reading, for full details of these publications.)
- Reference books (dictionaries, thesaurus, style manuals, etc.) are on the shelves at the far end of the Graduate Study Centre.

I.T. resources

- The Faculty’s web pages: http://www.phil.cam.ac.uk
- The Faculty website includes user guides for online meeting tools such as Microsoft Teams, Zoom, Google Meet and Skype. These can be found here: https://www.phil.cam.ac.uk/aboutus/IT
- Many resources are available on-line. The most comprehensive list of the databases and e-journals now available is at the University Library’s website https://www.libraries.cam.ac.uk/eresources accessible on any computer connected to the @cam domain. These include The Philosophers’ Index (searchable database of philosophical articles) and the Routledge Encyclopedia of Philosophy.
- A number of databases containing works of major philosophers are available on the Managed Cluster Service: https://help.uis.cam.ac.uk/service/desktop-services/mcs/mcs
- Attend the 'Research tools in philosophy' presentation (time to be confirmed) for information about these.
- The Computing Service runs courses on all aspects of computing, including word processing and construction of web pages: http://training.cam.ac.uk/ucs/ or pick up lists from the Service’s reception in the Roger Needham Building (where you can also find some handy leaflets).

- Cambridge University is committed to achieving excellence in research and scholarship. The pursuit of excellent research and the fulfilment of our responsibilities to participants in research, research users and the wider community require the maintenance of the highest standards of integrity and ethics. Information on training on these topics can be found here: https://www.research-integrity.admin.cam.ac.uk/training
- The website http://www.vitae.ac.uk contains a wealth of information for doctoral students including planning a doctorate, self-development, supervision, raising your profile etc.
- The Postgraduate Study Centre is equipped with full computing facilities. Postgraduate Students receive an initial allocation of printer credit from the Faculty, but should you use this up, additional printer credit is available online.
TEACHING SKILLS

TEACHING AND TRANSFERABLE SKILLS TRAINING PROGRAMME

The programme, this year led by Dr John Filling and Dr Jessie Munton, is directed at postgraduate students and research fellows in philosophy. It consists of four interactive workshops. It aims to achieve:

- greater understanding of what is involved in learning and teaching;
- increased confidence and control through the development of skills;
- improved teaching practice through reflection and discussion.

This is the nineteenth year of the programme. It undergoes continuous improvement in the light of the feedback received from previous years’ participants.

Postgraduate students and Research Fellows play a significant part in our undergraduate teaching programme. The Faculty is firmly committed to providing the best possible teaching for its undergraduates and expects that every PhD student will attend every workshop. The official list of supervisors distributed to Directors of Studies specifies whether supervisors have attended them. It is also a requirement for holders of AHRC awards to undertake transferable skills training.

MPhil students are very welcome to attend any of the training sessions. Visiting postgraduate students are also encouraged to attend.

Why you should take part

- The programme will help you state ideas simply and clearly.
- It will, as a side-effect, improve both the oral and written presentation of your research.
- We hope that the workshops will be enjoyable occasions that bring together graduate students and research fellows to share experiences, ideas and concerns.
- The Faculty will provide a certificate to add to your CV.
Brief descriptions of the workshops

1. The Philosophy Tripos at Cambridge.
   Monday 5th October, 10-11am. To be held on Zoom.
   This first workshop provides an introduction/overview to the Philosophy Tripos at Cambridge, covering issues such as: the syllabi, the modes of teaching, the modes of assessment. Recommended audience: anyone interested in teaching for the Faculty of Philosophy who is unfamiliar with the undergraduate programme.

2. Small group teaching
   Wednesday 7th October, 12.30-2pm. To be held on Zoom.
   This first workshop covers discussion groups and other seminars. We discuss basic practical matters related to the running of discussion groups/seminars, as well as the options for covering the relevant parts of the syllabus. We also consider the impact of non-verbal behaviour on learning, and examine ways to develop skills in listening and asking questions.

3. Supervising, assessment and evaluation
   Tuesday 13th October, 10-11.30am. To be held on Zoom.
   We will focus on the particular challenges of supervising students one-to-one. We will look at the roles of supervisor and student, ways to structure supervisions, and the aims and methods of giving oral and written feedback. We will also consider methods of evaluation, both of students and of your own teaching, including supervision reports, questionnaires, and observation of colleagues.

4. Teaching disabled students
   Monday 19th October, 3-4pm. To be held on Microsoft Teams.
   The aim is to raise the awareness of the special needs of particular groups of students. We will look at practical approaches to improving their learning environments. This workshop will be run by a member of the University’s Disability Resource Centre

Please book your place on this programme by contacting Charlie Evans (cme34@cam.ac.uk) by Friday 2nd October.
OTHER PROGRAMMES

Details of all training available for both staff and students can be searched and booked here:
https://training.cam.ac.uk/
Listed below are courses particularly relevant to our postgraduate students.

SUPERVISING IN PHILOSOPHY

Supervising Undergraduates: An Introduction

All new supervisors should sign up to the Effective Undergraduate Supervision course. This is a course that consists of: an online module, which introduces practices and principles of undergraduate supervision at Cambridge, and a face-to-face workshop in which you will explore challenges and approaches to supervising.

https://www.training.cam.ac.uk/gdp/event/2687612

In addition to the online course listed above, those who are likely to be involved in giving undergraduate supervisions online, may be interested in guidance provided by the Cambridge Centre for Teaching and Learning on moving supervisions online. This introductory guide addresses planning for and conducting online supervisions, including practical considerations about devices, platforms and tools, as well as structuring online conversations and giving feedback. Further information is here:

https://www.cctl.cam.ac.uk/teaching-2020-21.guides.supervisions

The Cambridge Centre for Teaching and Learning is also running a course, Undergraduate Supervision: An Introduction (Arts, Humanities & Social Sciences), being held on various dates. Booking details are here:

https://www.training.cam.ac.uk/cctl/event/3598265

Postgraduates who are giving supervisions to undergraduate students may find this online short book, ‘Tackling the Philosophy Essay: A Student Guide’, written by recent Cambridge PhD students, a useful resource, as it is designed to introduce students to the process of writing an essay in philosophy:

https://www.phil.cam.ac.uk/curr-students/IB/curr-students/writing-skills/
LECTURING

Lecturing Performance

The Cambridge Centre for Teaching and Learning has put together various online resources, which give an introduction to large-group teaching - lectures, classes and seminars - and the differences between online and face-to-face teaching. More details on this are here:

Guidance within the Faculty

Final year PhD students who are asked to offer a course of lectures may request advice from a member of the Faculty at the writing stage and feedback on the lectures. It can also be arranged for fellow PhD students to sit in on your lecture and offer feedback. Recording equipment is available if you would prefer to listen to a rerun of your lecture in private! Any questions to Charlie in room 324 or at cme34@cam.ac.uk.

Presentation Skills

The Careers service offers advice on interviews and can arrange interview practice with a careers advisor, using a webcam. More information can be found on the attached link:

http://www.careers.cam.ac.uk/applying/selection/interviews/index.asp

The Computing Service offer various self taught training courses on Powerpoint. Please see the following webpage for further information: https://training.cam.ac.uk/ucs/event/2737548

There are also a range of courses covering voice, presentation and communication. Full details of all these courses are on the Centre for Personal and Professional Development website: www.training.cam.ac.uk/cppd
GENERAL ADVICE AND RESOURCES

- The philosophy Faculty’s guide for undergraduate supervisors can be found here: https://www.phil.cam.ac.uk/people/intranet/DofS-area (Raven password needed)
- Refer to the Undergraduate Handbook for information about the Philosophy Tripos. Recommend the notes on reading and writing philosophy to your students. The handbook can be viewed here: https://www.phil.cam.ac.uk/curr-students/IA/curr-students/ugrad-handbk
- Consult the Lecture List, Course Outlines/Descriptions, Reading Lists and past papers, which can all be found on the Faculty’s webpage. The Faculty’s lecture listings can also be found on the University’s Timetable app: https://2020-21.timetable.cam.ac.uk/
- At the end of this document is an annotated reading list on teaching and learning. Some you can recommend to undergraduates.
- Supervision rooms can be booked via the following link: https://booker.eventmapsolutions.com/Account/Login (Raven password needed).
- Feel free to consult the Director of Postgraduate Studies for advice on any aspect of teaching.
The Language Centre will be running weekly classes for students in the Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences to develop their skills in reading documents in French, German, Italian, Brazilian Portuguese, Russian and Spanish. The aim is to develop strategies for reading longer texts faster. A variety of beginners and intermediate classes are offered.

Details of classes for the 2020/21 academic year can be found here:

https://www.langcen.cam.ac.uk/culp/culp-specialist-courses.html

The Language Centre also holds resources that can be used to study 170 different Languages in the John Trim Centre, as well as online courses. More information can be found here:

https://www.langcen.cam.ac.uk/language-learning-resources.html
ADMISSIONS INTERVIEWING

Towards the end of your time here as a PhD student you may well be asked by one of the Colleges to assist in the interviewing of prospective undergraduates. If this were the case you may be expected to take part in some form of professional development. The Centre for Personal and Professional Development runs Admissions Selection Workshops which can be booked via the following link:

https://www.training.cam.ac.uk/cppd/event/2179655

GETTING PAPERS PUBLISHED

If you are considering getting your work published, you may find it useful to read some online guides and be aware of phishing scams. Some good guides to read are:

Publishing Advice for Postgraduate Students and Publishing your Philosophy
http://www.colyvan.com/publishing.pdf

Your Supervisor will also be happy to give advice on this.

GENERAL ADVICE AND RESOURCES

Presentations and Conferences

Take every opportunity to present your work to discussion groups, seminars, faculty colloquia, philosophy societies and conferences. The public defense of your work will:
• stimulate your research
• provide extra feedback
• improve your presentation skills
• make you a better teacher
• enhance your CV
• raise your profile
• give you deadlines.

There are many philosophy seminars, formal and informal, in Cambridge. Presenting work at these will boost confidence in a friendly setting. But it is also important to branch out. You could start with postgraduate conferences or postgraduate sessions at conferences (e.g. the Joint Session of the Aristotelian Society and the Mind Association held every July. Advertisements for conferences are generally circulated by e-mail, but some are displayed in the Postraduate Study Centre. Many journals contain announcements for conferences.

Academic job advertisements

- The best website for philosophy jobs is http://philjobs.org. Also, keep an eye on the jobs pages of the THE and the Guardian for UK jobs (including Research Fellowships), the Reporter for Research Fellowships.
- http://www.jobs.ac.uk: lists academic jobs
- the e-mail list (PHILOS-L@LISTSERV.LIV.AC.UK) has postings of jobs. To join, mail to LISTSERV@LISTSERV.LIV.AC.UK with the command: SUBSCRIBE PHILOS-L
- Tell the Director of Postgraduate Studies and other members of the Faculty that you are applying for jobs so that they can keep you up to date with any information they receive.

Advice for job seekers; mock interviews etc.

- Supervisors are obvious first stops for advice on prospects and written submissions.
- You can consult your supervisor for advice on the construction of CVs, etc. They will help organise mock interviews, job talks and presentations when the real things loom.
- The Careers Service can also help with CVs and mock interviews.

Recommended Reading for Postgraduate Students and Research Fellows in Philosophy

The following books and many more can be found in the Study & Teaching Skills collection in the Casimir Lewy Library of Philosophy. If there is a book you would like to recommend the Library purchase for this collection please complete the book suggestion form on our website at: http://www.phil.cam.ac.uk/library/book-suggestion-form.

The PhD

Applies lean methodologies used by start-up companies to offer a new and more efficient approach to the doctoral research process.

A classic ‘survival manual’ with useful chapters on managing supervisors and the psychology of writing a thesis.

Offers advice to help overcome barriers to writing journal articles, books and proposals for grants and fellowships.

Provides guidance on how to plan and conduct your research from getting started, managing your time and your supervisor, starting to write through to writing up, the viva, presentations and beyond.

Publishing

In addition to notes on getting papers published, there is a section on resources for writing and publishing philosophy and a comprehensive listing of philosophy journals.

‘This book demystifies the process of writing academic papers, showing readers what good papers look like and how they can be written.’
Style

Dummett, M., Grammar and Style for Examination Candidates and Others (London: Duckworth, 1993)
A philosopher offers advice; witty.

Gopen, G. The Sense of Structure: Writing from the Reader’s Perspective

‘Notes for Authors, Editors and Writers of Theses’.

A sensible and simple set of guidelines for improving writing style.

Sword, H. Stylish Academic Writing

N.B. There are several other relevant reference books in the graduate centre.

Referencing

‘The essential referencing guide’.

Guides for teachers

The following titles are selected from the reading list for the Teaching Associates’ Programme offered by the Cambridge Centre for Teaching and Learning. The full course description and reading list can be downloaded from their website at: https://www.cctl.cam.ac.uk/tap.

Bligh, D., What’s the Use of Lectures? (San Francisco: Jossey Bass, 2010). Also available as an ebook via iDiscover

You may also find the following Philosophy specific titles helpful for your teaching:

Guides for undergraduates (to recommend to them and to mine for tips)

‘Written to deal with the specific language issues faced by international students, this practical, user-friendly book is an invaluable guide to academic writing in English.’

Focuses on the structure of arguments.

‘...a practical self-help guide for new and continuing students who are faced with taking responsibility for their own studies in college and university.’

Offers practical exercises and useful examples to examine what it means to think, read, discuss and write philosophically. Includes a guide to key library and online resources for Philosophy.

Advice from a philosopher on reading, listening to, discussing and writing philosophy as well as preparing for exams. Very short.
